Fifty Challenging Problems in Probability with Solutions Frederick Mosteller 1987-01-01 Can you solve the problem of "The Unfair Subway"? Marvin gets off work at random times between 3 and 5 p.m. His mother lives uptown, his girlfriend downtown. He takes the first subway that comes in either direction and eats dinner with the one he is delivered to. His mother complains that he never comes to see her, but he says she has a 50-50 chance. He has had dinner with her twice in the last 20 working days. Explain. Marvin's adventures in probability are one of the fifty intriguing puzzles that illustrate both elementary and advanced aspects of probability, each problem designed to challenge the mathematically inclined. From "The Flippant Juror" and "The Prisoner's Dilemma" to "The Cliffhanger" and "The Clumsy Chemist," they provide an ideal supplement for all who enjoy the stimulating fun of mathematics. Professor Frederick Mosteller, who teaches statistics at Harvard University, has chosen the problems for originality, general interest, or because they demonstrate valuable techniques. In addition, the problems are graded as to difficulty and many have considerable stature. Indeed, one has "enlivened the research lives of many excellent mathematicians." Detailed solutions are included. There is every probability you'll need at least a few of them.

Probability Problems and Solutions Stefan Hollos 2013-04 This book will help you learn probability in the most effective way possible - through problem solving. It contains over 200 problems in discrete probability with detailed solutions for each. Most of the problems require very little mathematical background to solve. A good grasp of algebra is all that is required. Some prior exposure to probability or combinatorics will make things easier but the book has enough introductory material to cover any deficiency in those areas. There are sections that review the basics of discrete probability and combinatorics. There are also sections on advance topics in discrete probability that are helpful in solving the more difficult and interesting problems. The problems range widely in difficulty and variety. They begin very easy and increase in difficulty as you go. The first few are warm up problems to wake up your probability neurons and get you ready for what's to come. Some of the later problems can be quite challenging and may take some effort to solve. There are problems on letters and words, dice and coin problems, card problems, sports problems, Bayesian problems, collection problems, birthday problems and many many more. The almost endless variety of probability problems is one of the things that makes them so stimulating and fun to solve.

Using the Standards--Data Analysis and Probability, Grade 3 Mathqueue 2005-04-01 Focusing on data analysis and probability, this book includes activities on designing investigations, collecting and interpreting data, making inferences and predications, and understanding probability with these easy-to-use reproducible worksheets. Includes hands-on activities and timesaving teaching aids such as skill checks, cumulative assessments, and student-created problems. The vocabulary cards reinforce data analysis terms and figures and the correlation chart and icons on each page make it easy to identify which standards are being used. Pretest, post test, and answer key provided.

How to Work with Data and Probability, Grade 3 Mary Rosenberg 2003-06-20 Give students that extra boost they need to acquire important concepts in this specific area of math. The goal of this How to book is to provide the information and practice necessary to master the math skills established by the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics. This book is divided into units containing concepts, rules, terms, and formulas, followed by corresponding practice pages.

Math by All Means Marilyn Burns 1995 Shows how to use games, experiments, and investigations to help students predict outcomes, test predictions, and formulate probability theories.

Students of Color and the Achievement Gap Richard R. Valencia 2015-03-05 Students of Color and the Achievement Gap is a comprehensive, landmark analysis of an incontrovertible racialized reality in U.S. K-12 public education--the relentless achievement gap between low-socioeconomic students of color and their economically advantaged White counterparts. Award winning author and scholar Richard Valencia provides an authoritative and systemic treatment of the achievement gap, focusing on Black and Latino/Latina students. He examines the societal and educational factors that help to create and maintain the achievement gap by drawing from critical race theory, an asset-based perspective and a systemic inequality approach. By showing how racialized opportunity structures in society and schools ultimately result in racialized patterns of academic achievement in schools, Valencia shows how the various indicators of the achievement gap are actually symptoms of the societal and school quality gaps. Following each of these concerns, Valencia provides a number of reform suggestions that can lead to systemic transformations of K-12 education. Students of Color and the Achievement Gap makes a persuasive and well documented case that school success for students of color, and the empowerment of their parents, can only be fully understood and realized when contextualized within broader political, economic, and cultural frameworks.
