Economics is the study of how humans make decisions in the face of scarcity. These can be individual decisions, family decisions, business decisions or societal decisions. It has fields bordering on other areas, including economic geography, economic history, public choice, energy economics, cultural economics, family economics and institutional economics. One of the fundamental principles of economics, described by Adam Smith in "The Wealth of Nations". Work can be undertaken more efficiently if broken up into discrete tasks. In the 20th century, English economist Lionel Robbins defined economics as "the science which studies human behaviour as a relationship between (given) ends and scarce means which have alternative ...
