Chemical Kinetics with Mathcad and Maple

Viktor Korobov 2011-05-26 The authors explain at length the principles of chemical kinetics and approaches to computerized calculations in modern software suites — mathcad and maple. Mathematics is crucial in determining correlations in chemical processes and requires various numerical approaches. Often significant issues with mathematical formalizations of chemical problems arise and many kinetic problems can't be solved without computers. Numerous problems encountered in solving kinetics' calculations with detailed descriptions of the numerical tools are given. Special attention is given to electrochemical reactions, which fills a gap in existing texts not covering this topic in detail. The material demonstrates how these suites provide quick and precise behavior predictions for a system over time (for postulated mechanisms). Examples, i.e., oscillating and non-isothermal reactions, help explain the use of mathcad more efficiently. Also included are the results of authors' own research toward effective computations.

The Equilibrium Assumption in the Theory of Absolute Reaction Rates Charles Francis Curtiss 1948 The assumption that systems in the activated state are in equilibrium with the reactant molecules has been open to question. In this paper, the methods of classical mechanics are used to obtain an expression for the rate constant without making this assumption. The result is similar in form to that obtained by Eyring except that the average velocity of the points in configuration space is related directly to the distribution in velocities of the molecules of the gas in real space. If one assumes that this distribution is Maxwellian one obtains the Eyring expression. However, the chemical reaction itself acts as a perturbing influence and causes the distribution in velocities to be somewhat different from Maxwellian. It is this perturbation of the distribution function which leads to a different value of the rate constant and consequently to a measure of the effect of the equilibrium assumption. (Author).
