Accessing the General Physical Education Curriculum for Students with Sensory Deficits
Roseanna Davidson 2006
Students in a regular physical education program typically learn skills through observation and practice.

Teachers and specialists working with students who are sensory impaired with multiple disabilities face unique challenges. Because such students make up a small percentage of the population, physical education texts on adaptation, instructional strategies and activities for groups give only minimal information about working with them. This new book explores the issues of the physical education curricula for sensory handicapped children.

Typically, these curricula are based on old techniques that have been used since time immemorial. Rather than examine how teachers utilise obsolete curricula, this important book examines how they effect the students.

Physical Education for Children With Moderate to Severe Disabilities Grenier, Michelle 2017-09-26
Physical Education for Children With Moderate to Severe Disabilities offers a comprehensive view of the inclusion of students with disabilities, including instruction, assessment, collaborative practices, communication protocols, and skill analysis. The text is relevant for all teaching environments and includes sample lesson plans aligned with grade-level outcomes.

This book was written to assist adapted and general physical educators who are dedicated to ensuring that the physical and motor needs of all their students are addressed in physical education. While it is anticipated that adapted physical educators, where available, will typically take the lead in many of the planning and assessing decisions addressed in this book, the content has been organized and presented in such a manner as to facilitate its use by all physical educators. To meet the needs of all of your students requires collaboration, long range planning, and continuous communication between all parties who work with your students. The book has been designed to provide you with the methods and procedures to address the physical education needs of your students with disabilities so that they can all achieve their potential and the benefits of physical education.
