EBOOK: Accounting: What the Numbers Mean David Marshall 2013-02-16 Accounting has become known as the language of business. This new edition is written to meet the needs of those students who will not be accountants but who do need to understand accounting to learn the key language that embarks us in the business world. Marshall, the leading text in the Survey market, takes readers through the basics: what accounting information is, what it means, and how it is used. The authors help students succeed through clear and concise writing, a conceptual focus and unparalleled technology support. In using this text, students examine financial statements and discover what they do and do not communicate. This enables them to gain the crucial decision-making and problem-solving skills they need in order to succeed in a professional environment. Core Concepts of Accounting Information Systems Nancy A. Bagranoff 2008 This textbook is completely updated and revised to provide the latest information on the Internet, e-commerce, software and database management systems as they apply to accountancy.

Intermediate Accounting J. David Spiceland 2011 Adopters and reviewers praise Intermediate Accounting, 6/e, by Spiceland/Sepe/Tomassini for its superior readability, strong supplements package/learning system, good EOC, real-world flavor, consistent quality; and high student engagement. SST 6/e will gain support in both traditional and progressive accounting departments, especially those looking for a more concise, decision-making text that reinforces challenging concepts. The authors have created a flexible text with a student friendly writing style that focuses on explaining not only how to apply a procedure, but why its applied. SST 6/e is built around a Learning System designed to prepare students for the new CPA exam and the business world, by emphasizing decision making. Acknowledging the diversity of students and their learning styles, the authors have created a clear text and varied supplemental materials to aid the success of every student.
